

Research Center for Jurisprudence and Law

June 2017

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful

The Research Center for Jurisprudence and Law was established in 1995. Its field of study is the Islamic jurisprudential and legal knowledge and related sciences.

The very diverse works of the research center are not limited merely to a particular field of jurisprudence and law. Research priorities are defined according to the need of the society to fill the lack of research in some particular topics. The main characteristic of all these studies is "innovation" in their subject area. It is remarkable that one of the most important innovations of this research center is the explanation and explication the philosophy of jurisprudence and promoting considering of its implications in studies focusing on jurisprudential science. Using the Shiite jurisprudential legacy and the potential of seminary scholars, the research center has been trying during its scientific lifetime to review the Shia legacy according to new developments and underscore the efficiency of Shiite jurisprudence.

Goals

The main goals of this research center are:

1. Explaining and revising the basics and theoretical frameworks of jurisprudential science in order to empower it and develop its usage in various individual and social fields.
2. Providing effective jurisprudential models in order to response the basic needs and questions of contemporary human and society.
3. Providing rational explanations about jurisprudential and legal teachings.
4. Explaining the foundations and jurisprudential and legal issues of the Islamic Republic of Iran and answering its needs.
5. Refining and explaining the foundations, sources, territory, goals, history and methods of the inference of jurisprudence and Islamic law.
6. Transferring the needs of the inference to Usul al-Fiqh (principles of Islamic jurisprudence) and turning them into subjects in the Usul-related form.
7. Leading profoundly Usul-related skills from purely scientific discussions to practical one.
8. Realizing the knowledge capacities of jurisprudential rules in the framework of strengthening the comparative topics of jurisprudence and law.
